

AscenVision® Technology appoints Crawford Technologies as its New Zealand distributor

San Jose, CA, November 11, 2005 - AscenVision Technology, a leading provider of highly reliable and efficient network appliances to improve network management, security and performance, announced today that it has appointed Crawford Technologies to distribute its WAN load balancer, AscenLink. Crawford Technologies is a wholesale IT distributor, providing considerable value-add to system integrators and resellers in addition to product supply. "We like the fact that they act as a sales and technical resource, providing full solution advice and recommendation either to, or on behalf of the reseller" said Jacy Chang, Business Development Manager for AscenVision.

Under the agreement Crawford Technologies, will distribute AscenVision's, AscenLink, intelligent WAN Load Balancing appliance, aimed at the SME market.

AscenLink is an intelligent multi-homing and QoS server appliance that integrates auto-routing, multi-homing, QoS, and a Firewall all into one appliance. The auto-routing and multi-homing features offer a comprehensive and highly effective way of increasing the reliability of Internet connectivity. Whilst the QoS and firewall features provide better bandwidth, access management and improve overall network efficiency.

Chang, went on to say, "In the past two years, network load balancing and traffic management have become topics of major interest in the network integration field. We have deployed more than 2,000 AscenLink units into government, high tech manufacturing, banking, retail, education, airlines, hotels and cyber café chains. Close co-operation with our business partners is strategically important to our success and as specialists in Networking, Virtual Private Networks & WAN communications, Crawford Technologies is an excellent partner to further strengthen AscenVision's sales network and customer service in the South Pacific region".

Commenting on the appointment, Managing Director of Crawford Technologies, John Crawford, said, "the AscenLink product fits well into our product range and we look forward to duplicating the success that AscenLink has had overseas in the New Zealand market.
